Subject: Requesting Assistance Regarding Website Layout Issue

Dear Mr. Jigar,

I hope you are doing well. I wanted to inform you about a problem I've been facing while working on one of our recent front-end projects and would appreciate your guidance to resolve it.

While designing the responsive layout for the client's website, I noticed that certain sections are not aligning properly when viewed on smaller screen sizes. I've reviewed the CSS and grid structure multiple times and tried a few fixes, but the issue still persists. It seems to be related to the framework compatibility or an overlapping script conflict.

I would be grateful if you could take a moment to guide me on how to handle this issue or suggest someone from the team who could help me troubleshoot it efficiently.

Thank you for your time and support, sir. Please let me know if you'd like me to share the project details or files for a quick review.

Warm regards,

Karan Kharvar
